

With the conglomerates buying up many of the stations across the country, there is a concern that they are starting to control programming to the extent that they decide on a national level what artist's music will or will not be played on their stations. Local control will help to minimize that.